My main rig is a work in progress. But here is what it is for now:

MAIN-

XION 450 Watt Power Supply..came with the case =(

ASUS A8N-E Socket 939 nForce4 Ultra motherboard

AMD 3800+ OCed to 2.6GHz

6800 GT 256MB PCI-E

1GB (2x512MB) DDR 400

WD 7200 RPM 250GB SATA 3.0

and a crappy DVD-ROM with another CD-RW as well.

And I picked up a laptop for graduation:

Gateway MT6458

AMD Turion x2 TL-50

1GB (2x512MB) DDR

ATI Radeon Xpress 1150M (256MB)

and a 160GB hard drive

Has a nifty dual layer DVD burner and a TopDog N card built in.

Remember now, I have don't even have a job yet. I work on free parts and money from chores.

Not to dis on your setup Spaz, but why in the world you gonna do with a 9800gtx in linux?
I hope you know they don't have linux drivers out for the 9800gtx's yet.
Oh and there is no such thing as Vista x64 Business MEDIA CENTER. :P

Just a few questions, what model of Quad Core you got?
What size of the drives do you have, brand, model?
What speed is your ram and what are the timings?
Does your TV support 1080p?

Keep it up, you have the makings of a good machine...

WTF, is this how to be a ass Wednesday? ;) (jk)

Drivers or not Linux can still use the card without 3D acceleration. As far as Vista I have Ultimate. The info there was from where I cut and pasted from Sandra all my info because I was lazy.

CPU Model: Intel Q6600 Model: BX80562Q6600

I have 4 250gb WD Caviar SE16 7200 WB Model: WD2500AAKS

Memory: 4GB 5-5-5-15 DDR2 1066 (PC2 8500) Model: TWIN2X4096-8500C5DF

TV: My TV officially doesn't support 1080P but if you try to set it to that it will display a picture. The problem is that its all purple and off center.

Re:Post Your Rig!

Posted by Nimda79 - 2008/04/02 23:02

Haha, Nimda always smells like ass :P

You should try OC'ing that proc. There have been some good results, like 3.0ghz.

That would help drive that video card of yours to a whole new level.

Re:Post Your Rig!

Posted by Spaz - 2008/04/03 14:41

I might if I need the extra speed. So far the lowest I seen it go is 45fps in UT3 at 1080i @ maxed settings. Downloading crysis now. My old 7800 couldn't handle it.

WTF... On the can you run it site. I get a 3 out of 6 for my card. :blink:

Re:Post Your Rig!

Posted by Nimda79 - 2008/04/03 16:19

OC Results for Q6600 listed below:

<http://forums.slizone.com/index.php?showtopic=15556>

http://boardreader.com/t/Die_hard_Overclocking_Case_Mod_164285/Q6600_OC_results_07_22_2007_08_31_What_a_232213.html

So you should be able to do 3.0ghz on your stock cooler and stock voltage. :woohoo:
