More on this soon, but I will get the interest started...

A complete lan package in a small box the size of a network switch. In fact it comes with 22 GB ports for others to connect to and a wireless N network to connect to other people as well. It features a Network Media server as well as a comprehensive game server package. THis whole thing is web based and is run easily by anyone with no skills required.

Coming to a lan near you soon...

Patent Pending
